THE important lesson taught by the defeat of the Democratic party in Wilmington is that no party can afford to ask the support of the people for a ticket, which, if elected, will not fairly represent them in the law-making branch of the Government. The organization of new parties cannot be wondered at in these times of corruption and evil doing. The only safe course for the Democratic party to pursue is to nominate men who are above reproach, men who have shown by their private acts their wisdom and purity.

THE Board of Trade has received information from a reliable source that the peach crop on this Peninsula will be greater this year than it was in 1875. Many persons think such a crop of peaches an impossibility at this time, but the fact is that the peach section has extended westward and southward in the Maryland counties and the centre of production has moved South in our own State. There are more trees in Kent to-day than there were in New Castle in 1875. For Sussex many persons claim one-quarter of a full crop while others declare that no peaches will be marketed from that county. From Felton northward present indications point to a very heavy crop. On the branch roads, running generally through Maryland, there are indications of a crop which will exceed any ever grown there.

Correspondents have informed the Board of Trade that the crop promises to exceed any one of the past. With every prospect favorable, and with almost a certainty that great sums of money will be paid for Peninsula fruit Middletown people should exert themselves to the end that the peach convention to be held here Thursday, June 18th next, may be a credit to the town and to the people of the community in which it is situated.

The situation of Middletown is such that buyers from different points may locate here and find splendid hotel accommodations, convenience of telegraph and telephone, and trains running at convenient hours to every point in the peach country. As a base of operations for canning or evaporating establishments Middletown cannot be excelled; she has the buildings and is the centre for all Peninsula railroads. At the convention to be held here next Thursday the fruit business will be discussed from every standpoint; the grower, the canner, the evaporator, the basket manufacturer, the transportation company, the commission merchant will be represented. The meeting will be harmonious because the interests are identical; no one who has been specially invited to be present need be afraid to come as no demands of any kind will be made. The proposed convention is to be held for the purpose of bringing together those interested in fruit and not to take advantage of anyone. We extend to every reader of THE TRANSCRIPT an invitation to attend the Convention and hope they will accept it.

THE ELECTION held in Wilmington last Saturday resulted in the defeat of the Democratic ticket and as a consequence Republicans everywhere are predicting Republican success in the whole state at the next general election; that such a thing is possible no one can possibly deny; it is even probable. Without desiring to cast any reflection upon the candidates for Mayor, Treasurer, Solicitor or President of Council, we are compelled by the serious condition of affairs at this time, to enter a protest against the reckless manner in which outlaws and men wanting in character are placed upon the Democratic ticket in that city.

The Democratic party of Delaware is, to a certain degree, compelled to shoulder the responsibility for these men and they invariably prove to be a heavy load. That some of the candidates on the Democratic ticket were seriously cut cannot be doubted and imported negro voters held the balance of power. The Pennsylvania carpet-baggers, assisted by drunken and ignorant negroes actually closed a polling place and drove out the election officers.

Councilman Colton who has gained so unsavory a reputation as a carpet-bagger and unprincipled ward worker, stood by with a man known as Captain Edmund Mitchell, Jr. and helped the negroes to obstruct the window and intimidate the election officers, while police officers of the city sworn to do their duty actually refused to protect the Inspector in the discharge of his duties. When the election was over these persons were invited to address the young Republicans who went out to serenade the successful candidates. By such methods the Republican victory was gained and in such a way was it celebrated.

The truth of the matter is that a minority of the intelligent portion of the people of Wilmington aided by the votes of ignorant negroes have overruled the wishes of a greater number of people equally intelligent. This alliance of a few intelligent persons with the negro voters is a menace to good government and a condition which the founders of our system of government never contemplated; it has arisen within the last twenty years and within the next twenty years will either cause a dissolution of our government or a scattering of the negro vote amongst the various political parties. The possibilities for evil under present conditions, are great; a few such men as those who acted the part of intimidators and general rascals at the city election will generally boss the persons elected through their nefarious practices. In the arrest of Mitchell we see the promise of a just punishment for evil deeds and the Republicans threaten to arrest Democrats whom they charge with certain crimes. By these threats they hope to avoid the arrest and punishment of their own criminals. If there is any dishonesty let it be punished; let not the political leaning of any man insure him against punishment for crimes committed.

Marsh Thought to be Located.

The Philadelphia Press this morning said: "Marsh is still missing from Philadelphia, but it was the general belief last night that he will shortly be in the toils. It was reported on good authority that the fugitive bank president has been located and that he will be brought to Philadelphia inside of seventy hours.

Chief Wood last night claimed that he had no definite information of Marsh's whereabouts, but an official of the Government stated that Marsh would be in the custody of the Government authorities here on Saturday. He refused to say where Marsh had been located, but based his statement that Marsh would be here on Saturday on a careful calculation of the number of hours necessary to bring him here."

Items of General Interest.

An autopsy was made of the brain of Lawyer Bartine, of Asbury Park, who, it is supposed, died of a cat bite. Evidences of hydrophobia were found.

The jury in the Tranby Croft baccarat scandal case in London found for the defendants, thereby practically declaring their belief that Sir William Gordon Cumming had cheated at cards.

As the steamer Australia was leaving Honolulu, fire broke out in the Government warehouse, and before assistance could be rendered 40,000 cases of kerosene oil was destroyed, valued at $250,000.

The estate of the late P. T. Barnum, of Bridgeport, Conn., as shown by the inventory, is estimated at: Personal property $1,285,599; Real Estate, $2,985,933; making a grand total of $4,279,532.

John Wallace of the Chester Times was acquitted of libeling George W. Mc-Cracken in the Delaware county, Pa., court, yesterday, but the costs were put upon him. The case grew out of the contest for congressman last autumn.

Col. R. H. Abercrombie of Gadsden, Ala., was mistaken for a burglar by his son-in-law, Dr. Braker and instantly killed last night while walking in his garden. He was a prominent man and was a colonel in the war.

E. D. Thayer, the aged president of the Brandon National Bank in Omaha, on business left that city last Saturday with $40,000 in notes in a hand bag and while he was in the dining car en route the bag disappeared and he has been unable to get any trace of it since.

An outbreak occurred at Port-au-Prince, Hayti, on May 28th, while President Hippolyte was in church. General Sully and a mob broke open the prison doors and released over 200 prisoners. The Government troops opened fire on the mob and for three days the fighting was kept up, about 100 people being killed.

How Easton 'Bus Drivers Fooled Three Philadelphia Detectives.

It was reported last week that the absconding Bank President Marsh, of the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia, had migrated to Easton. This was enough to set the detective force of the Quaker city agog, and last Friday evening three swell gentlemen put in their appearance and immediately made known their business. The city detectives registered at the Brick hotel under the names John G. Lowry, C. Moore and W. Davis. They were informed that a man answering the description of Marsh was seen to get off the cars at Easton and was still in the county. Each 'bus driver selected his detective and confidentially told where Marsh was hiding. An agreement was made that each detective should hire a team and go with his driver in search of the fugitive. Teams were secured and the modest sum of $10 a day was charged by each bus driver for the team and services, and each one went his way confident of securing Marsh. After a two days' search they returned and were much wiser and experienced in the duties of the secret service of the city versus the town bus drivers. —Star.

Alone with $100,000.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 9.—Three years ago Sam Welser, the famous clown who travelled for many seasons with Dan Rice, found himself alone in the world with $100,000. He was seventy-three years, but determined to leave his money to a woman, and that woman his wife. He married pretty Edith Pearl Wilson, aged fifteen, and at once made his will in her favor. To-day the pathetic side of the still funny clown's life was shown when he buried his pretty wife. He is now alone again with his $100,000.

Of all the great newspapers in this country to-day the Philadelphia Record is one of the very best. That a penny newspaper can be a success has been shown by the Record during the past 14 years of its existence, and it certainly seems that journalism has reached the highest pinnacle when such a paper as the Record, with the ability and talent employed on it that it has, can be sold for a penny. May it ever be as successful in the future as in the past.

Another sea tempting crank is calling notice to his idiotic intentions. It is Harry Truebenback, of New York, and he proposes to sail from that port to Boston in a seven foot boat. The Coroner should keep an eye on him.

John Bardsley Pleads Guilty.

Ex-City Treasurer John Bardsley, of Philadelphia, was arraigned at noon Tuesday at the bar of the Quarter Sessions Court and pleaded guilty to eighteen bills of indictment, charging him with loaning money as a public officer in violation of the law, investing public moneys for his private gain, taking an agreement to receive interest on deposits of public moneys and converting money to his own use as the agent of the city. Crier Levi Hart read the bills of indictment under four titles, in a distinct voice, during which the utmost silence prevailed. At the end of each title the crier said: "How say you, guilty or not guilty?" To each of these set queries Mr. Bardsley responded by an affirmative nod of the head, while the sounds which escaped from his quivering lips were almost inaudible. His face was suffused with a scarlet flush, the lines of intense suffering were drawn deeply and toward the last it seemed that his countenance would burst like some overcharged vessel. His small, narrow glances darted out swiftly from beneath the heavy arches of his eyebrows and recoiled with painful agony. There was a terrible look of abasement and keen self consciousness in those features, worn by suffering and shame. When Crier Hart read for the last time "How say you, guilty or not guilty?" the features of the unhappy man broke into convulsive twitching and the tears coursed down his face in rapid succession. His counsel, Robert Alexander stood beside him with an expression of painful soberness.

Toward the latter part of the ordeal Bardsley lost complete control of himself and sank helplessly on a bench. He recovered in a few moments and regained, in a measure, his former position. District Attorney Graham addressed the court in a low tone. He said that as the only question remaining was one of sentence, the counsel for Mr. Bardsley was not prepared for the evidence which would be presented in view of the plea of guilty. He desired the court, after hearing Mr. Alexander, to fix upon a date for finally disposing of the case. The court agreed to this. Mr. Bardsley was subsequently returned to prison in the van.

The full penalty on all the indictments upon conviction is 85 years.

The Alleghenies in Early Summer.

The beauty of the Allegheny Mountains in June, when the wealth of forest leafage and the rich profusion of flowers may be seen at their best, is a sight and experience that no one should miss. Ten days passed in the pure air of the mountains at this season of the year will be worth a world of good to those who will spend the greater part of the summer at home. It will fortify them against the heat and burn of the long, hot days of July and August and create a physical strength which no other treatment could produce. The climate of the highlands is peculiarly delightful, and the mountain breezes do not permit the air to become uncomfortably warm. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company's personally-conducted tour of the 25th inst. to Cresson comes just in the nick of time and affords the opportunity desired. Round trip tickets, including one full day's board at the magnificent Mountain House, will be sold from Middletown, Del., at the low rate of $9.

The return coupons of excursion tickets will be good for ten days, including date of tour, and to those remaining for a longer period than one day a special reduction in hotel rates will be given. As the number of tickets for this tour will be limited persons intending to participate should secure their tickets at least three days in advance. Unused tickets will be redeemed at the General Office of the Company upon presentation, either in person or by letter. The train leaving 9.00 A. M. will connect with the special train leaving Broad Street Station at 10.40 A. M. This tour will be under the personal supervision of the Tourist Agent of the Company. A Chaperone will accompany the party to attend to the wants of ladies unattended by escorts.

A Family with the Hydrophobia.

The fourth of the Vandeveer family at Atchison, Kan., has been taken with hydrophobia. The father was stricken Tuesday and his death is momentarily expected. One member of the family died Saturday and two others, it seems, cannot recover. The cases are the most remarkable ever heard of in the West. There are six brothers and one sister in the family and there is considerable apprehension lest more of them should be stricken. Dr. King says that there is no doubt that the disease was transmitted to the boys when they skinned an affected calf nine years ago.

Thomas Vandeveer is resting easy. The condition of his mind has entirely changed since Tuesday morning. He is now quite convinced that he will live. When Dr. King called on him he was engaged in writing a letter of consolation to his father. Jacob Vandeveer, the fifteen-year-old boy, has not taken a particle of nourishment since he was attacked by rabies Saturday. The peculiarity of the strange disease in centering at the muscles of the throat completely prevents him from swallowing. The sight of anything nourishing or anything that suggests swallowing throws him into the most horrible convulsions.

The custom house officials at Suspension Bridge have discovered a scheme whereby Chinamen are successfully smuggled into this country from Canada, without fear of detection. A Chinese boss at Toronto is the leader. He receives the Chinese fresh from Van Couver, and if they are wealthy enough he tickets them through to New York to Mott Street, over the Erie by the way of the Bridge or Ogdensburg, sending them in sleeping car berths on the flyer which passes Suspension Bridge at 3 o'clock in the morning.

The young lady that finds her richest enjoyment in dreary literature ought to turn to the advertising colums of our local papers. Living in New England she is all unaware of the possibilities which this rich expanse of dismal waste has for her. Maybe some friend will tell her.

We write not for her but for the quick wits of dames and damsels that never tire of the praises—honest—of Gloriosa, our Gloriosa. Hypocrisy is a tribute to virtue, imitation is flattery. Therefore thrice welcome all the diminutives in Gloriosa! The real and original win by contrast, and that is why all the Gloriosa roads lead to our counters. When we first essayed Gloriosa we thought only of one season or two, but we builded beyond our thought and now, in the fifth season or sixth, they are more than ever glorious. The blacks ertswhile $1.75, are $1.25 now, 48 inches; and the shimmering colors, including latest, are $1.25, 40 inches; $1.50, 48 inches. 80 degrees in the shade makes one think of Gloriosa.

Fancy can be pleased and comfort secured for a trifle in these garments as they are going now. The sales are great but not a moiety of what they would be were the warm weather comfort and the cheapness better known and understood. The prices begin at $1 and by short steps reach $5 in the various Linen and Cotton Wash Fabrics.

— Mr. W. S. Letherbury showed the writer a few days ago a piece of American tin, made by the N. & G. Taylor Co., of Philadelphia. It cannot be told from English-made tin except from the finish which is not quite so bright as that made in England. The jobbers' prices are the same for both articles.

— Mr. W. H. Johnson has a small square of his garden planted in strawberries of the Sharpless variety, and so far this season he has picked about twenty-five quarts. The berries are very fine and the yield from so small a space is remarkable. His harvest is not over yet and he expects to pick several more quarts before they are all gone.

— George E. Stengle, a son of Rev. Adam Stengle, formerly pastor of the M. E. Church, and a young man well known here, is about to establish a weekly paper in Port Peposit, Md. George was a typo in this office for a number of years where he learned his trade, and we wish him every success in his venture.

— Children's Day will be observed in the M. E. Church next Sunday, and the program will be divided so that part of the exercises will be given in the morning and part at night. The church will be decorated as is usually the custom, and the exercises, which the scholars have been practicing some time, promise to be very entertaining.

— The cherry crop this year is immense, and the fruit has probably never been so plentiful or of such good quality as within the past few weeks. The writer was shown a branch taken from a tree a few days ago, not quite two feet in length, which had over ninety cherries on it, all in good healthy condition. Who can beat it?

— We are in receipt of a beautiful card of invitation to the commencement exercises of Goldey's Wilmington Commercial College, to be held in the Opera House in Wilmington, on Tuesday, June 16th, at 7.30 P. M. The annual address will be delivered by Rev. Sam Small, A. M. The whole program gives promise of being a very entertaining affair.

— At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Boardof Trade it was decided to advertise for capitalists who were thinking of locating to consider the advantages which Middletown can offer them. An advertisement was accordingly inserted in the Philadelphia Record. It remains to be seen whether it will result in any good or not.

— Bishop Coleman preached in St. Anne's Church last Sunday morning, but owing to the bad weather there was a very small attendance. In the evening, Rev. John Chamberlaine of St. Anne's Protestant Episcopal Church, New York City, and a son of Dr. G. G. Chamberlaine of this place, occupied the pulpit of St. Anne's Church and preached a very able sermon.

— W. V. Hawke, who played for the Middletown base ball club last year is making quite a record this season. Twenty-two men took their turn at bat for the Morton, Pa., club on Saturday, against Hawke, who pitched for Rockford of Wilmington. Nineteen fanned the air, one was given a base on balls, the other two flyed out. Not a hit was made off the Rockford's new "phenom."

— The commencement exercises of the Middletown Academy will be held on Friday evening, June 26th, in the Opera House. The graduating class will consist of five young men, namely, Thomas Kibbler, Samuel Kelley, Harry Tatman, Samuel Rothwell and Reese Parker. — Augustine Pier will open for the season on Thursday, June 25th, with a social hop in the evening. Mr. Lord, the proprietor, has made several additions to the attractions of the place, among which is a bicycle and trotting track. The switchback railway has been put in order once more and everything will soon be in readiness for the excursion season. The steamers Columbia and Christina will make daily trips (except Sunday) from Philadelphia and Wilmington to the Pier and this arrangement cannot fail to make the place more popular and have larger crowds there than ever before.

—The Committee of the Junior Order of American Mechanics who have the Fourth of July celebration in charge, are meeting with considerable success. Eureka Council No. 1, of Wilmington, will be down and take part in the parade. There are about fifty men in the Council. Volunteer Hose Company will take part in the parade and several other organizations from neighboring towns have been invited but have not yet been heard from. A general invitation to all the business men of the town to have floats in the parade or to assist in any possible way in making it a success is hereby given. A Pastor Resigns.

Rev. W. P. Patterson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at New Castle has resigned, and at the conclusion of the preliminary service Sunday morning he announced to his congregation that he would petition the New Castle Presbytery at its next session to sever the pastoral relations now existing beween himself and the church. He has been pastor of the church for seven years, and his resignation is the result of some trouble that recently arose between pastor and people. A meeting of the congregation will be held to discuss the pastor's position.

Daniel Hartnett's Dusky Sweetheart.

Timothy Hartnett, a well-to-do farmer residing near Marydel, came to Dover Tuesday night at midnight and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his son, Daniel, on the charge that he "is insane." The warrant was served at daylight, and Daniel is now in Dover jail.

Daniel is a stalwart, bright looking chap about 17 years of age and shows no signs of insanity. After his arrest it leaked out that the father had him locked up because he was determined to marry a rather good looking mulatto girl named Jennie Sudler, whose parents reside on a little place adjoining the Hartnett farm. For a long time the parents of Daniel have noticed a growing intimacy between him and the mulatto girl but all their expostulations have been in vain. When the elder Hartnett arose Tuesday morning he was astonished to find on the kitchen table an open letter from Daniel, addressed to him, which the son stated that he was "determined to either marry Jennie or die," and that he should marry her in a day or two. A search for the youth found him at the negro's cabin with his fiancee. His father induced him to return home with him, and as he got him there he locked him up in his room and came to Dover.

Daniel swears he will elope with the girl as soon as he is released from jail and the maiden also states that she will stick to Daniel.

The laws of the State prohibit intermarriage under a penalty of $100 on each of the parties as well as on the minister performing the ceremony.—Philadelphia Record.

Peach Growers' Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of peach growers assembled at Easton, Md., yesterday. A. J. Wilson from the committee on peach crop estimates, reported an estimate of 75,000 baskets between Easton and the Choptank; C. F. Eastman, 35,000 in Miles River Neck; George C. Moore, John W. Knotts and David Knotts, 40,000 or 50,000 baskets within a five miles radius of Queen Anne's Station.

J. L. Banning, committee on bids for baskets reported a number of bids ranging from 4 to 5½ cents per basket. The bid considered the best was that of the W. Patton Company, Bridgeville, Del.—4 cents for an octagonal basket, made of good material.

Hon. Edward L. Martin of Seaford, Del., one of the pioneer peach growers of the peninsula, addressed the meeting on the Peach Exchange as the best and most economical way of handling the peach crop. Exchange dealings are for cash. The buyers come to the agreed-upon place of exchange for the fruit and bring the money with them. The exchange charges are one cent a basket, paid by the seller, and one-fourth of one per cent on the price, paid by the buyer. Colonel Martin was attentively listened to during the whole of his very interesting and instructive address. A vote of thanks was given him. It was unanimously resolved that a fruit exchange be established at Easton. An exchange will probably also be formed at Queen Annes. These exchanges will be branches of the Delaware Fruit Exchange.

Rev. T. C. Anderson.

Rev. T. C. Anderson, pastor of Pencader Presbyterian Church of Glasgow, died very suddenly on Friday last of heart disease. He had been ailing for some time and his death, though sudden, was not unexpected. The funeral was held in his church on Monday. Dr. S. M. Osmond read the scriptural lessons and led the congregation in prayer. Dr. W. D. McKinney, D. D., preached the sermon, and his text was from First Psalms, 3d verse: "He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water." The text was descriptive of the character of the good man, and especially as illustrated in the life and character of the deceased. Dr. McKinney had been a warm personal friend of the deceased for a number of years and paid a glowing tribute to his memory. Subsequent addresses were made by Dr. Lafayette Marks, of Wilmington and Rev. Edward Webb, formerly pastor of Pencader Church.

The pulpit and pastor's chair were draped in black, and the congregation sent a handsome floral pillar with the words "Our Pastor" on it. The interment was made in Laurel Hill cemetery, near Philadelphia.

Mills Burned at Delmar.

The steam saw and planing mills and basket factory, belonging to Speaker William L. Sirman, situated near Delmar, were destroyed by fire at 8 o'clock last night. There was no insurance on the buildings or contents, which are totally destroyed. The total loss will probably be about $6,000. The destruction of the mills throws a large number of hands out of employment.—Morning News.

Next Wednesday will be commencement day at Delaware College, Newark. There will be six graduates. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached next Sunday by Rev. H. C. Bunstein, of Milford.

Newark's total assessment is $550,000, and as the tax-rate is 75 cents on the $100, more money would be raised than is necessary. Appeals are being made and the Town Council may make a 10 per cent. reduction.

J. Wilkins Cooch, Esq., of Pencader, was on Thursday appointed Register of Wills in and for New Castle county, in lieu of John Bradford, Esq., whose term expired.

The Harlan & Hollingsworth Company has contracted to build two duplicate steel propeller steamers, each 310 feet long, for the Providence and Stonington Steamship Company for services on Long Island Sound. Both will be finished by May 1st next. They will cost in the neighborhood of $750,000 each.

Hewett Chapman of Felton, Del. is missing and his family are very much exercised over his whereabouts. The last time he was heard from he was in Florida. It is feared that he has been killed in a railway accident on the line where he was employed as four of the men killed were unknown. He has held several positions on the Delaware railroad.

Dr. C. H. B. Massey Dead.

Dr. Charles Henry Bedford Massey, one of the wealthiest and most widely-known citizens of Kent county, died at his home, near Massey's, on Tuesday night, of malarial fever, in his sixty-third year. Dr. Massey was stricken with paralysis in his lower limbs fifteen or twenty years ago, since which time he has been to a great extent helpless. During the past year he has been under the treatment of a specialist in Philadelphia, but had received but little benefit. About two weeks ago he was seized with an attack of malarial fever, which resulted in death on Tuesday. He was possibly the largest land-owner in Kent county, and has been variously estimated to have been worth from $150,000 to $200,000. He married Miss Oldham, daughter of Mr. George Oldham, of Cecil county. A wife and six children survive him,—two daughters and four sons.

"A Nuisance and Must be Abolished."

The Board of Health of Wilmington, in weekly session Tuesday night resolved, "that William H. Lee, ex-Secretary of the Board of Health and City Registrar, is a nuisance and must be abolished." Lee refuses to be succeeded before next May by W. C. R. Colquhoun, who was appointed last Tuesday, because of irregularity in the law pertaining to the office Lee will defend his claim in the Courts.

Lee is Ousted at Last.

The safe in the office of the Board of Health was opened yesterday morning by an expert, and ex-City Registrar and Secretary of the Board William H. Lee, who tried to prevent the operation, was ejected from the office. The new official, W. C. R. Colquhoun, then took possession. Lee has opened a headquarters in the office of City Auditor John A. Mitchell, and will issue death, birth and marriage certificates as usual. The Board of Health will not honor them, and then the affair will go to the court.

Wilmington City Election.

The Republicans, made a clean sweep at the city election in Wilmington last Saturday. They elected their Mayor, President of City Council, City Solicitor, City Treasurer, Assessor and Collector of the Northern District and members of Council in the Second, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Twelfth wards. The majorities for the city officers were from 436 to 919. This gives them control of Council by a vote of 8 to 5, and is the first time they have had possession of the local legislative body since 1884.

Testing Peach-Tree Soil.

Twelve tons of soil from around peach trees afflicted with the "yellows" in the orchard of James Green, near Magnolia, have been sent to Washington by Government specialists for analysis. The soil will then be sent to Michigan and placed around healthy trees. The result will be anxiously awaited, and the scheme is the outcome of two years practical study on the part of the specialists.

Parents should take an interest in having their boys taught to swim; it would save many a life.

— The Odessa and Delaware City stage had a breakdown on its return trip to Odessa on Saturday evening, in which Mr. James Parker, who was driving, narrowly escaped death. There was twelve passengers in the coach and Mr. Parker was riding close up front when the front axle broke throwing him under the horses heels, where he was held, jammed by the wrecked stage. The horses behaved splendidly, and Mr. Parker was extricated without very serious injury. None of the passengers were hurt. The coach is being rebuilt at the shop of Mr. W. C. Webb.

— The shad season closed here on the 10th, according to law, though no boats have been fishing for them from here for nearly two weeks, all of the boats having been engaged in sturgeon fishing. The shad season was only a fair one this year, but good prices prevailed most of the time which compensated in a great measure for the small catches. The season closes in New Jersey five days later, (June 15th). The sturgeon fishing so far has been about medium, some of the boats doing very well, others poorly. This fishing continues until late in the fall, there usually being a second run of sturgeon during the month of September. Prices are good, the average price for a roe fish being eight dollars.

You Can't Make Them Think So.

We see by several of our exchanges that towns on the Peninsula have been buying a column or so of "boom" in the New York World. Now, if the merchants of said towns had invested the same amount of money with the papers published in their own villages, they would have done more for the towns—and their own benefit in the way of a boom than they can possibly receive by the investment in the World.—Princess Anne Marylander.

Davis Bros. have on hand a very fine lot of early Rose seed potatoes raised in Holton county, Maine. They are able to sell at prices which are satisfactory because they bought at first hands.

Felton Church Troubles.

A correspondent writing from Felton to Every Evening of Monday says: "The first quarterly conference of the M. E. Church, held here yesterday, was a warm affair. It was a big hoodoo, interspersed with singing, praying, crying and then more quarreling. Upon Presiding Elder Wilson taking the chair he first hurled a degree of excommunication of the five stewards present from Manship and Willis chapels, those churches having refused to abide by the change made at the last session of the general conference, which cut them off from the Felton charge.

Thomas Case, one of the official board of Felton church, instantly arose and told the stewards to stay where they were, that their good old fathers before them had contributed to the building of that edifice and that they had as much right there as Presiding Elder Wilson had, and that the church would live after Mr. Wilson was gone; that he for one was going to stay there and assert his rights as long as there was one brick piled upon another. To all this tirade the elder curtly replied that he was not addressing Mr. Case and wanted nothing to do with him whatever. Though he did admit that he desired the intruding representatives of the two neighboring churches to remain, and told them he would place their two churches and Masten's back on Felton circuit provided they were willing to support a young man to assist the Rev. Mr. Hains in filling their pulpits for the year. He also told them that this was all the concession on his part they need expect to get.

Their reply was that: If Manship's and Willis' were set back to Felton as they were formerly, they would vouch for $200 as before towards Mr. Hains (or whoever might be the Felton preacher's) salary. They would not under any circumstances be saddled with the responsibility of paying an extra preacher. And said: If their reasonable demands were not granted they would go over to the Methodist Protestant body and breeches. So they stand and who will give in remains to be seen. Such cutting sentences from the stewards to the elder as "I don't know whether to call you brother or not;" and from the elder to the members as "Where is your obligation of allegiance?" was frequent throughout. Thus ended the first act in the drama and the preacher's salary not settled upon yet. This will necessitate another meeting as that is one of the important matters for action at the first quarterly conference each year.

A Jerseyman's Strange Joke.

In order to get square with his wife's relatives, who, he claims, estranged him from his wife, James Smith of Plainfield, N. J., arranged a funeral for himself. He summoned a lot of the relatives by telegram, and they came with floral offerings, and kind words for "Jim," which he heard from ambush as they neared the house. He tacked up a notice that he had gone to the woods to hang himself and there was double consternation. The relatives and several duped townspeople are still blue with rage, while Smith is laughing at the joke.

THREE LOVES.

BY LUCY H. HOOPER.

There were three maidens who loved a king;
They sat together beside the sea,
One cried, "I love him, and I would die
If but for one day he might love me!"

The second whispered, "And I would die
To gladden his life or make him great."
The third one spoke not, but gazed afar
With dreamy eyes that were sad as Fate.

The king, he loved the first for a day.
The second his life with fond love best;
And yet the woman who never spoke
Was the one of the three who loved him best.

REUBEN'S OLD DAD.

HE ALMOST LIFTED THE STATE OF TENNESSEE.

I got off at a small railroad station in Tennessee to find a crowd in front of a saloon, and as I began inquiring the cause of the excitement a young man of twenty turned and replied:

"Stranger, I kin tell ye all about it. Do ye want to see the corpse?"

"Then some one is dead?"

"Dead as a coon-track, and it's my old dad at that!"

"Been a row here?"

"Not a bit of it. Dad jest made a fule of hisself. He's in thar' waitin' fur a cart to take hisself home to be laid out and buried."

"Never seed nuthin' to ekal it in all my bo'n days!" said a man in the crowd.

"I was right yere, or I wouldn't hev sniggered to it no how," added a second.

"It was jest this way, stranger," continued the son as he picked a silver off a pine box and began to whittle at it with a spring-back jack-knife. "Dad an, me comes down yere this mawnin' to buy a mewl. Dad was powerful frisky all the way down, and he sez to me, sez he:

"'Reube, I kin out-walk, out-run, out-shute, out-hollar and out-lick anythin' on top of this yere airth's surface, and I'll bet our farm agin a drink of Nashville whisky on it!"

"I sees dad was purty chucky, and I sex to him, sez I:

"'Dad, you's top of the heap around yere, and nobody kin deny, but doan' you go and meet up with no fight in town. We's arter a mewl, we is, and we doan' want no fussin' nor nuthin'."

"And with that dad jumps fo' feet high and cracks his hells together and whoops out that he's b'ar-traps, pizen, powder and catamount, all biled down into one, and that he's dangerous if anybody goes to pick up his hind foot."

"Yaas, and I hears him holler when he's a mile away," said one of the crowd.

"Of co'se you did," replied Reuben, "of co'se. Dad was powerful on the holler. He'd holler a b'ar out'n a tree half a mile away. When we got down yere thar' was a feller from Memphis with a patent liftin, masheen a-standin' right yere. Thar's the pieces of it agin the fence, while the feller hisself is ten miles away and still runnin'."

"But twasn't his fault," protested a man on mule-back.

"I ain't sayin' as 'twas," placidly answered Reuben. "I'm a-sayin' as dad got mixed up and made a fule of hisself. No sooner had he sot eyes on the mashen than he cracks his heels together and crows like a roosteer and sez to me, sez he:

"'Reube, I kin pull the hull durned State of Tennessee right up by the roots if I kin git a brace fur my feet.'"

"I tried to shy him off by talkin' mewl, but dad was powerful sot in his ways, and he crows some more and hollers:

"'Whoop—whoopee! Lemme git hold of them 'ere handles, and all you' who don't want to tip over when the airth comes up had better hang to the fences! Reube, stand back and gimme room!'"

"Yaas, I heard him say them remarks," put in one of the crowd.

"So'd I," added half a dozen others.

"Of co'se he said 'em," continued Reuben—"of co'se. Nobody's denyin' that he said 'im. Dad jest figgered on pullin' most of this yere airth up as easy as you kin lift the top crust of a pie. He spit on his hands, grabbed them ere handles, and when he straightened up I jest felt the ground trembling all around."

"So'd I!" called seven or eight voices in chorus.

"Dad had one side of the hull county lifted up two foot high, when there was a rip and a smash—them handles tore out, the masheen flew to pieces and the airth sunk back with a chugg, which made us dizzy."

"Then your father had broken a bloodvessel or something of the sort?" I queried.

"Skeercely, stranger—skeercely. Dad wan't no man to stop at one bloodvessel. He jest busted hisself all to pieces, and was a goner afore we could reach him. I might say he sort o' run together and caked. He was six feet high when he grabbed them handles, and now you can't make him over four foot ten as he lies in thar' on a board. Jest pulled his knees up and his shoulder down, and I reckon his lungs would hold his galluses up if thar' was any buttons on 'em. The man who owned the masheen wasn't to blame—of co'se he wasn't—but when seed the calamity he started fur Knoxvill on the jumpin' when he turned the co'ner of the hill up thar! Dad's in yere, stranger Come and take a look. Mighty good man, dad was, but a lettle too coltish when he had about fo' drinks of apple-jack under his shirt bosum. Crowd back thar, boys, and make room! Doan' act like you never dun met up with a calamitous spectacle befo'!"—M. Quad, in New York World.
